> For each operation in relational algebra, think about the implementation issues.

> Think about I/O, disk storage, OS and DBMS issues and performance parameters like response time and throughput. Look at time spent in various types of disks for access to data.

> Keep thinking about implementation of not only related to queries but other issues such as schema, subschema, integrity constraints.